Faye from Ether, Silver & Home brings a love of home design to you! Bouncing off classic and current trends to create unique homeware. Using sustainably sourced and reclaimed materials, her aim is to create products that add to your home and last for generations.

"Coming from a woodturning background I grew up with beautiful handmade pieces and homeware. The variations in woods are abundant, I have yet to meet anyone who isn't drawn to the tactile quality wood has, the warmth it can bring to a home and connection it brings back to our environment is something I hope is evident in my work."

Based in the hills just outside Llandovery I work in my old railway carriage studio overlooking the Brecon Beacons and Black Mountains. Constantly inspired by my beautiful surroundings taking much inspiration from my local area. I am a self taught artist using mainly acrylics and watercolours plus an array of other mediums and crafts.

Work includes landscapes, seascapes, animals & florals and more recently abstract work. Member of the Tywi Valley Open Studios.

Artwork is available straight from studio, Facebook, Instagram & website. Commission work & creative workshops undertaken.

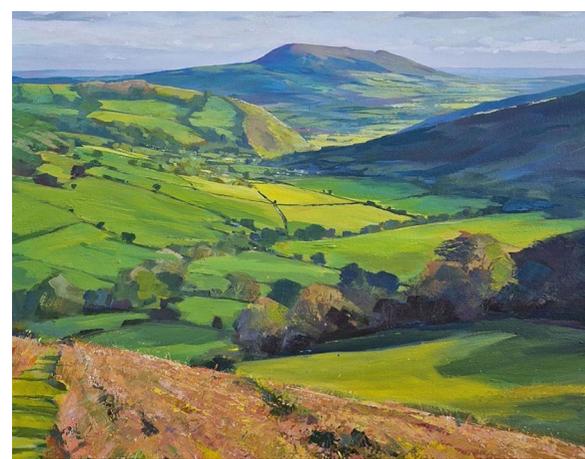

4 Woodville Woodcraft

Woodville Woodcraft began as a way to utilise offcuts of high quality timber from the musical instrument making process, as well as reclaimed wood from various sources. The range now encompasses carved birds, fine decorative boxes, jewellery, and Christmas decorations - all handcrafted by luthier and woodworker Geoff Coates in his Vale of Glamorgan workshop.

Geoff's work has attracted customers and commissions from across Europe and North America, as well as throughout the UK and Ireland. Pieces are available from Glass by Design (Penarth) & Inspired Gallery (Usk & Symonds Yat), as well as online & direct from the maker.

6 Alison Edgson Art

My paintings are contemporary landscapes and exploring the area within an hour's drive from my home offers everything from the wide, watery vistas of the Severn Estuary to the remotest parts of the Black Mountains and the Brecon Beacons.

However, the huge skies and distant views from Llanishen village are ever-changing and as atmospheric skies are my favourite subject, I often don't need to leave the house to find plenty of inspiration!

Formerly a children's book illustrator, I enjoy the freedom that landscape painting brings, especially when I take my paints and easel for a day painting in plein-air!

Helen creates a range of quirky animals, featuring hares, donkeys, cats, dogs and ponies. Sometimes they wear a disguise or costume, a mask, a hat, theatrical make up ect. The artist explores the way that we humans often try to hide our true selves or vulnerabilities behind a mask or facade, pretending or taking on other characteristics.

Helen uses a range of hand building techniques and each piece is unique and individual. Sometimes they are wall hanging and others freestanding. She makes from a small studio at her home in South Wales and has recently enjoyed producing special commissions of pet portraits.

Sarah recently visited Marrakech on a very intense workshop run by Nicholas Wilton of Art2Life, using acrylics in a more abstract style. Meeting with fellow artists from around the world. It has given her a thirst for more free painting in mixed media and the courage to experiment further.

This was followed by a stay in Marrakech city in a Riad exploring the Souks, gardens and traditional areas. Definitely an experience for the senses! and a lot of material for future artwork some abstract some more traditional. Perhaps using some of the pigments bought in the Souk.

Jane A Edwards

Since retiring from a career in education, I finally have the time to pursue my interest in drawing, painting and mixed media.

I have attended local art classes over the years when time allowed but retirement has given me the freedom to attend classes and workshops both locally and further afield on a regular basis where I have been introduced to a wide variety of mediums and techniques as well as styles, taught by a range of artists ranging from hyperrealism used for animal portraits to semi abstract interpretations for landscapes.

I am very fortunate to live in a beautiful, area within easy reach of the Brecon Beacons National Park with its ancient woodlands, open mountains and canals as well as the contrasting landscape on its border still bearing the scars of our rich industrial past.

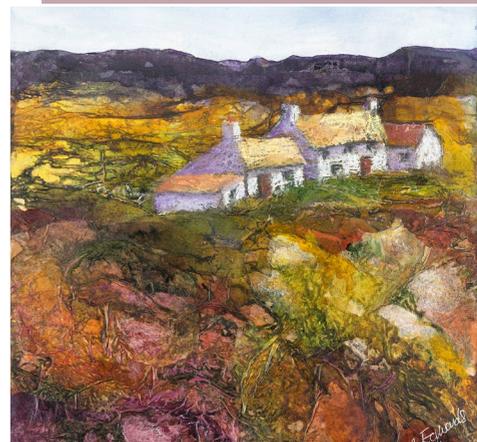

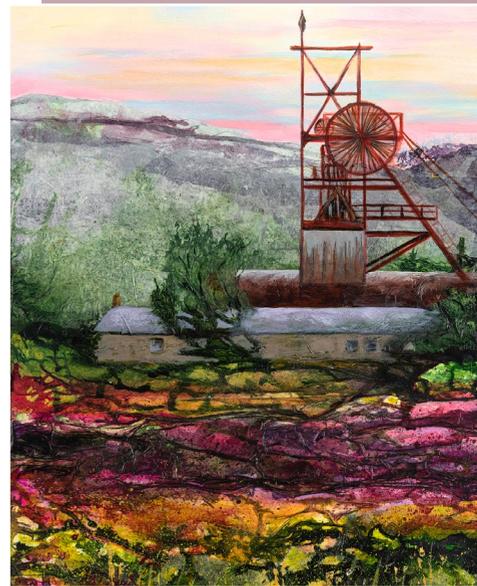

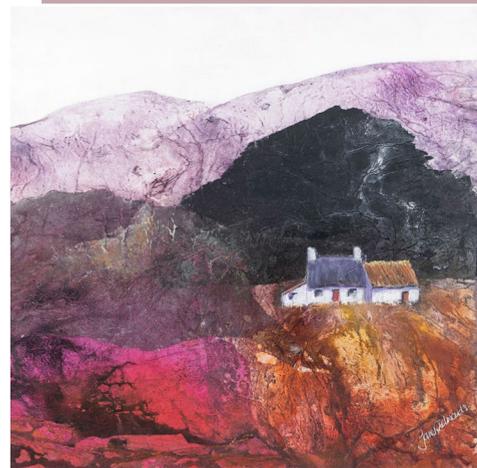

Both offer a very different beauty and I feel inspired to capture both within my art.

Time spent in semi-isolation during Lockdown gave me more opportunity to combine my love of walking and photography which inspires my work.

I am fortunate to have a small studio in my garden, complete with a wood burner for the chillier seasons, which offers me peace and quiet away from life's everyday distractions. I have created animal portraits in the past using watercolour and coloured pencils but I now prefer to spend my time exploring ways of combining new techniques.

Time and Tide by Jane Paice

1-29 April 2023

*“In the pale reflections, just out of reach,
I feel your soul ...”*

Life: Full Colour welcomes Jane Paice to the yellow gallery this April for her first solo exhibition in our Caernarfon home.

“Time and Tide” is a collection of work inspired by the magnificence of the sea surrounding Jane’s home on the Isle of Anglesey.

The paintings, which are oil or mixed media and semi-abstract in nature, utilise bold, dramatic seascapes to remind us of the fragility of being human.

Jane says: “Time and Tide” explores my interpretation of the relentless energy and dynamic nature of the sea juxtaposed with the fleeting passage of our time on earth and the echoes and footprints we leave behind.”

The sea has been a strong theme in Jane’s work since she began pursuing art full-time. “The sea is where I feel closest to those precious people I have known and loved and who have gone before me to a place I cannot reach and cannot see.

“My eldest son passed away a few years ago and I often feel I am reaching out to him in my paintings, attempting to bridge the gap between us.”

Rather than a literal interpretation of the surrounding landscape, Jane’s work hints at shapes and forms with her bold use of colour and marks. Her work features many shades of blues, purples and greys, as well as splashes of earthy reds and oranges, but there is always a ray of light that shines through.

“I have dark, moody paintings that might have started with sadness or despair, but I always add colour and life into my work. I want to show there is hope no matter how bad things may seem. I also like to create ambiguity in my work so that it can be interpreted in more than one way.”

The exhibition will feature more than 25 paintings, and will also include original poetry by Jane which will explore the emotions and sentiment behind this new body of work.

“Time and Tide” by Jane Paice is on from 1 to 29 April. You can see it at Life: Full Colour, 23-25 Hole in the Wall Street, Caernarfon. The gallery is open every Wednesday to Friday, 11am to 6pm. Visit www.lifefulcolour.com for details.

Sarah J Powell Art

On a very hot day in June 2022 Sarah had an amazing experience as a wildcard on the 2023 Sky Arts Landscape Artist of the Year at Royal Ascot.

It began early in the morning with checking in canvases and meeting fellow artists, all with differing mediums and experience. Sarah had her trusty oils, perhaps not so easy in the weather conditions. She soon found out that it gets very gooey and attracts grass and grit!!

It was the first time for LAOR to go to Ascot and there was a strict dress code. Posh frocks and hats were needed. Wildcards were positioned near the entrance to the Royal enclosure, A good position to watch people, outfits and fantastic hats! The Royal Procession was a highlight of the day. Throughout the day one could pop over to the pods near the stand to observe the contestants.

There was certainly a great feeling of comradery In the Wild card area. Ideas, picnics and experience shared and friendships made. It was a pleasure to meet Dame Joan Blackwell. Stephen Mangan kept the contestants amused. One was on their best behaviour when the judges came round! All in all, a great experience.

Now the programme has aired, Sarah can share her time at Ascot and is currently finishing off her picture in her Cwmdu studio.

The House of Ugly Fish

Members of the Guild of Master Craftsmen and Federation of Small Businesses, The House of Ugly Fish is a small, husband and wife artisan business based on the beautiful Isle of Anglesey, specialising in the creation of fully bespoke, handmade fused glass art. Their artworks are perfect for the home environment as well as in commercial applications and for outdoor spaces.

Having moved home and business to Anglesey, Paul and Lisa have worked hard to establish a new workshop with a retail shop filled with glass and canvas artworks, beautiful home accessories and Welsh products including salt, soaps and candles. Lisa also runs glassmaking classes.

Lisa Villarospo

Lisa's background as a commercial fine artist led her to produce work for many galleries and retail shops until she finally broke into the world of commercial glass art in 2005.

Lisa honed her glass making skills and soon made her presence known in the world of fused glass art. Being half Venetian, her love of Murano glass has influenced her greatly, as can be seen in the striking colours used in her own glass art. Together with The House of Ugly Fish, Lisa has transformed the perception of fused glass from a simple craft to something that can be recognised as legitimate artwork, and established a place for fused glass art alongside art on canvas and art in frames.

A Leading Name in Fused Glass Artistry, Lisa is now one of the most accomplished glass artists in the world, with a widely recognised style that has roots in her fine art background. Her art is as often seen in the hands of private collectors and A-list celebrities as it is behind the cooker or on the wall of your average home.

Her work with The House of Ugly Fish can be seen in homes, hotels, restaurants, hospitals and offices across the country. It has also been featured on TV programmes such as Grand Designs, House Gift and BBC's Happy Valley with both The Times newspaper and Homes & Gardens magazine running articles about Lisa's art and The House of Ugly Fish.

She is artistically mutable and can create many different genres in art from figurative to seascapes, fine art to abstract.

She says "I am constantly inspired by Anglesey's beauty. Every time I go for a walk, there's a gorgeous sky or a captured moment from an ever changing landscape. I find ways to put, what is in my head, into glass using enamel powders and textured glass in various forms. I love creating beach scenes best of all."
